21. Tuggeranong Schoolhouse, Chisholm [V56]<sup>1</sup>

Location

District of Tuggeranong, Division of Chisholm, Section 560 Block 41 as identified in Figure 21 and indicated on the Territory Plan Map by the Heritage Register Overlay at H21.

Features Intrinsic To The Heritage Significance Of The Place

The place comprises:

- a) school and residence building, including the kitchen/laundry extension;
- b) brick toilet;
- c) garage;
- d) shearing shed;
- e) meat house;
- f) dog house;
- g) remnant gate and fence; and
- h) remnant planting including mature eucalyptus and pines.

Statement Of Significance

The Tuggeranong schoolhouse site is one of the earliest public schoolhouses constructed in the ACT, providing an excellent example of late 19th Century school architecture and evidence of early rural public school life. The school also provided an important link between the educational and social values of its regional community.

It has important associations with the prominent nuclear physicist James McGee, who lived in the Schoolhouse and attended the Tuggeranong School. McGee is also closely connected with the development of television in Australia.

Specific Requirements

In accordance with s54(1) of the Land (Planning and Environment) Act 1991, the following requirements are identified as essential to the retention of the heritage significance of the place:

- i) Significant Elements
  - a) All future use of the site is to retain and respect the significant built form and landscape elements of the site as listed under the features intrinsic to the heritage significance of the place.
- ii) Building including alterations and additions
  - a) External alterations and additions to existing buildings shall reflect and complement the architectural style of the original buildings. This includes alterations to external finished including and changes including painting and adding or removing rendering.
  - b) Additions and alterations may be permitted only if it can be demonstrated that they have minimal impact on the significant heritage values of the place.
  - c) The original building form is to remain dominant.
  - d) The roof pitch, walls, materials, window types and materials, shall be as similar to the original buildings as is feasible.
- iii) Demolition
  - a) Subject to (iii) (b) and (iii) (c) demolition of original buildings shall not be permitted, other than in exceptional circumstances, including circumstances in which the building is structurally unsound and beyond economical repair or where there are significant public health and safety reasons to warrant demolition.
  - b) The demolition of original external building fabric shall only be allowed in the context of permissible alteration of, and/or addition to, existing buildings.
  - c) Alteration or addition to, or demolition of, internal components of original buildings may be permitted provided the external building fabric of the existing building is not adversely affected.
