

Attention Annie Lane

The culling of the Eastern Greys

I have been following this since 2008. Are you aware of David Nicholls who is an ex commercial shooter? have you read anything about him ? He is now a kangaroo conservationist after trying to count Roos across Australia and is now in the belief that Eastern Greys are at risk.

Regarding the earless lizards and the golden sun moths, how and what proof do you have? when there was never any peer reviewed science given to the tribunal in 2014 by Don Fletcher. Fletchers papers are not reviewed so how can you count this?

I also would like to know what you would say to this fact, Kangaroos have been here for thousands of years, and have never had an impact on nature, but humans have been here for only a short time and have had a serious impact on nature, do you not agree that humans have had a huge impact in ACT from all the development? In fact many elderly residents say that Canberra is no longer regarded as the Bush capital.

Do you ever do studies on 1080 poison?, which has been used widely, wiping out thousands of native animals, do you not realise that this kills pretty much everything, and that CSIRO experimented on forty species of birds from the seventies to the eighties, and all birds died or became seriously ill? Do you not realise that other species in your area of ACT such as certain types of bats, birds and frogs are no longer being seen in your area anymore. Is this also the Eastern Greys fault?

Every time the Gment puts out numbers of how many culled, they / you always mention to forget the amount of Joeys that will be culled.

And are you aware of the myopathy in the roos that are left behind, what we call the "ghost" population. these mobs are so stressed, that they are not able to breed properly. Disease sets in when animals get so stressed, look at what man did to Koalas, now the same will happen to the Roos. Some Roos have been brought into care with phenomena and other sicknesses, the ongoing interruptions on their mobs is creating such stress its going to affect their gene pools.

I think it is totally disgraceful on every level of what your doing, it is barbaric and beyond cruel. There is no such thing as one shot to the head. Pulling out joeys and whacking them over bull bars, and stomping on them is the most despicable thing Australians are doing. I personally find it evil

And I would like some response and answer to my questions please.

Regards
